Sports Hearing Opens Today

Big League Officials Attend Session

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Celler (D-NY) says Congress has an "obligation" to determine whether Supreme Court rulings have discriminated between baseball and other professional sports.

Rep. Keating of New York, senior Republican on the subcommittee, said at the outset Congress would create "chaos in the sporting world" by blanketing baseball and other professional sports under federal antitrust laws.

Top big league figures attended the opening session. Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick, Presidents William Harridge of the American League and Warren C. Giles of the National League listened attentively as Congress and government officials testified.

Commissioner Bert Bell of the National Football League also was present. Football's situation doesn't come up for another two weeks as the subcommittee plans to spend that long receiving testimony from baseball executives, players and others close to the game.

Celler started the inquiry by recalling that the Supreme Court twice has held that baseball is not subject to the federal antitrust laws, but it ruled last winter that pro football does come under antitrust regulation.

Fisherman Saved By 'Two Lousy Matches'

MONTEREY, Calif. (AP) — "Two lousy matches" saved a commercial fisherman from the Pacific after five days adrift in his disabled salmon trawler.

"I was down to two lousy matches," said Jack Coats, Eureka, Calif., when rescued before dawn Sunday. "But I was ready."

After drifting 200 miles through fog and heavy seas, Coats, 32, soaked his shirt in gasoline and waved it for a flare. That was at 1 a.m. Sunday morning when he saw the lights of the destroyer George Anderson bearing down on him 22 miles off Monterey.

Even though he had consumed only raw fish, a nubbin of mouldy bread, five vitamin pills and two quarts of brackish water left over from last season, he refused to leave his boat, the Gojoc. The Anderson kept him under her floodlights until a Coast Guard cutter arrived to tow him to port.

Coats was in good condition and drove back to Eureka Sunday with his wife.

He vanished last Tuesday afternoon off Arena Cove more than 100 miles north of San Francisco when he took his 36-foot boat out for a test.

His battery failed, the engine wouldn't start, his radio was dead and a fog closed in.

The Coast Guard searched the sea with three cutters and two planes. Fishermen were alerted, but he scudded rapidly southward before a strong wind "through heavy seas and fog."

Angry Mobs Loot, Burn, Stone

50 Killed, 200 Hurt As Riots Sweep Haiti Over Weekend

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — Violent rainstorms lashed Port Au Prince today, washing out threatened new political violence for the time being. At least 50 persons perished and 200 were hurt in weekend rioting.

The ruling military junta broadcast continuous appeals to businesses to operate normally, and warned that it had power to force operation of essential services and maintenance of food supply lines. The general strike has been a potent political force here in the last six months.

With scores in critical condition, the death toll from Saturday night's carnage may reach well over 100. Angry mobs went on an orgy of looting, burning and stoning in protest at the army's ouster of their idol, Provisional President Daniel Fignole. Troops stopped it with submachinegun fire.

About 1,000 Haitians were imprisoned.

The workers from Port au Prince's slums threatened another burst of violence Sunday night. But a cloudburst lashed this unhappy Negro republic in the afternoon, turning the capital's muddy streets into swirling streams two to three feet deep.

The capital's workers and peasants in the countryside threatened to stage a general strike today, the weapon they have used to get rid of others of the five provisional governments which preceded the present military junta over a six-month period.

Troops Guard Embassies Troops guarded all embassies and legations. U.S. Ambassador Gerald Drew said he was in constant touch with the army.

"There has been no indication of antiforeign or anti-American sentiment," Drew declared, "and there is no need to evacuate Americans."

There appeared nothing ahead but trouble for the crisis-ridden republic, with its illiterate, poverty-stricken, hungry masses being manipulated by power-seeking politicians, all feuding among themselves.

Jordan Closes Cairo Embassy

Relations With Egypt Worsened By Action

AMMAN (AP) — Jordan's strained relations with Egypt widened further today as she moved to close her embassy in Cairo.

The latest move in the mounting feud between Jordan and the Egyptian-Syrian alliance threatened to dissolve what little remains of the Arab unity proclaimed in Cairo four months ago by Egyptian President Nasser, Syrian President Shukri Kuwattli and Kings Hussein of Jordan and Saud of Saudi Arabia.

Announcing Sunday that the embassy was being closed, Jordan Foreign Minister Samir Rifai asserted this did not mean breaking "political relations" with Nasser's government. But he acknowledged that all employees were being recalled.

Egyptian officials in Cairo would not say whether Egypt would retaliate by closing her embassy in Amman. It was considered significant Egypt's new envoy to Amman has not taken up his post as scheduled a month ago.

The controlled Egyptian press made plain, however, King Hussein's rift with Nasser would cost him Egypt's share of the annual $6-million-dollar Arab subsidy promised him when Jordan broke her defense pact with Britain.

Indicted In Slaying Of Former Fiance

WASHINGTON (AP) — Edith Louise Hough, 41, was indicted today on a first-degree murder charge for slaying her former fiance, Russian-born Zurab Abdusheili, a Voice of America translator.

Abdusheili, 44, was shot six times with a .25 caliber pistol in Miss Hough's apartment on fashionable upper 16th Street on Memorial Day.

The shooting occurred less than three weeks after Abdusheili married another woman.

Miss Hough, a graying blonde secretary and a graduate of Radcliffe College, called police immediately after the shooting. She asked them to come quickly.

The officers responding to the call quoted her as saying she broke her engagement to Abdusheili about a year ago when she learned he had been "deceiving" her by having other women on the string.

Miss Hough told police that Abdusheili, over her objection, called at her apartment to express condolences over the recent death of her father, Dr. William Hite Hough, 79, a retired physician.

She said she shot after Abdusheili became "more and more aggressive," tugged at her sweater and skirt and lunged at her.

Sought Officer Who Arrested Her

Girl, 20, Invades Police Station With Shotgun

NEWTON, N.J. (AP) — Patrolman William Knoll looked up from his desk at the police station here early Sunday in time, he said, to see an attractive 20-year-old pointing a 12-gauge shotgun at his head.

He gave the following account: The girl, Vivian Masters, entered the police station of this northern New Jersey mountain town while Knoll was alone on duty. Holding him at bay with the shotgun, she demanded that he call Patrolman Charles Young, who arrested her last month on a charge of reckless driving.

At that point, two other patrolmen radioed in to report a safe cracking. With Miss Masters' permission, Knoll acknowledged the call but gave out a code signal calling the patrolman back into the station immediately.

The petite brunette, dressed in blue jeans and a sports shirt, continued demanding that he call Young.

Patrolman Anthony Deta entered the station and was confronted by the shotgun. Knoll, who knew the girl as a crack shot skilled at deer hunting, suggested that Deta drop his holster, which he did.

Meanwhile, Patrolman Clarence Friedland, looking in from the porch and realizing the station was under attack, rushed in. While he distracted Miss Masters momentarily, Knoll grabbed the gun. He said it contained three shells.

Police said the girl was no stranger to violence at the station house. After her arrest for reckless driving, she tried to run away from officers who were taking her to the station, they said. When police finally brought her in, she poked her arm in through a window.

This time she was locked in the county jail with a 24-hour lookout posted outside her cell. As they locked her up, police reported Miss Masters told them: "If they send me up for this, I'll come back and get you. . . I hate all cops."

Man, Woman Are Victims Of Rt. 18 Crash

Collision Is Head-on; State Patrol Arrests 17 Over Weekend

Two persons were killed and 17 others injured in a series of eight auto accidents which occurred on district highways Saturday and Sunday. Seven persons were arrested.

John Loguidice, 44, of Youngstown, and Mrs. Ruth Hill, 41, of Akron were killed Sunday afternoon when the cars in which they were riding collided on Rt. 18, about eight miles west of North Jackson, at 2:30.

Mrs. Hill was riding in a car driven by her husband, Ernest, 42, when it was struck by Loguidice's vehicle.

Canfield state highway patrolmen said Loguidice's car went left of the center line and struck Hill's auto head-on. Loguidice died instantly of a fractured skull and broken neck while Mrs. Hill died of a fractured skull and crushed chest.

Patrolmen said Loguidice was crushed under the steering wheel. Mr. Hill is in fair condition at Youngstown South Side hospital with lacerations of the face and a fractured nose. Leanna Hill, 14, his daughter, is in fair condition with lacerations of the face and possible internal injuries.

The case is still under investigation, patrolmen said.

Collide Near Greenford

Daren Whitacre, 34, of Lisbon, is in good condition in Salem City Hospital and Earl Kesler, 44, of Columbiana is in fair condition today following a mishap which took place Saturday at 5:30 p.m. at the intersection of Rt. 165 and the Washingtonville Road, one mile east of Greenford.

Whitacre received a possible concussion and lacerations of the head. Kesler received a fractured skull, concussion, deep laceration of the scalp and left elbow, and possible fractures of the jaw, elbow, ribs, hip and pelvis when Whitacre's auto crashed the stop sign at the intersection and hit Kesler's car broadside.

Canfield patrolmen said both cars rolled over upon the impact. Whitacre was cited for going through a stop sign.

5 In Family Injured

Five members of one family were injured when the car in which they were riding struck a utility pole while rounding a curve on Rt. 62 near Canfield Saturday at 4:15 p.m.

Injured in a car driven by Charles Nonnemayer, 31, of Youngstown were: Beverly Nonnemayer, 29, his wife, multiple cuts and abrasions; Beverly Jean Nonnemayer, 6, body abrasions.

Susan Nonnemayer, 3, body and facial abrasions.

Karen Nonnemayer, 1 1/2, body and facial abrasions.

They were all treated at Youngstown's South Side hospital.

Patrolmen said Nonnemayer was cited for driving while intoxicated.

Three other members of one family were slightly injured when the car in which they were riding was struck by an auto operated by Richard Tomoko, 27, of Youngstown on Rt. 18 just west of Youngstown Sunday at 7 p.m.

Canfield patrolmen said Tomoko's car ran through a traffic light at the intersection and collided with a vehicle operated by John W. Hetherington, 27, of Youngstown.

Injured in Hetherington's car were: Ada Hetherington, 12, his wife, possible back and side injuries; Debbie Hetherington, 4 months, his daughter, scalp laceration.

This And That

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open that old mailbox:

That when a New Orleans church installed air conditioning its attendance increased 44 per cent.

That judo, the Japanese art of using a competitor's strength against himself, is helpless against an aggressor with a passive attack. ("I'll explain this broken arm later.")

That Henry Castello, a machine gunner in the second World War who now operates a popular restaurant in midtown Manhattan called "The Press Box," gives this tip: "Cabbage juice for ulcer sufferers."

That in the 1890s peanut butter was recommended for invalids.

That the average life of a dollar bill is from nine months to a year ...without vitamins.

That Queen Anne was the only British lady sovereign who was so fat she had to be lifted to her throne.

That (it says right here) a 10-second kiss transfers twice as many germs as a two-second kiss ...to really poison a girl takes time!

That a professional entertainer whose act is built around his ability to walk a rope is called a funambulist.

That practically everyone is aware of the fact that Demosthenes, the great orator of ancient Greece, cured himself of a stammer by speaking with pebbles in his mouth...but who remembers what the man said when he took the marbles out?

That according to the Fisherman Magazine a fish doesn't feel pain.

Also, that a trout doesn't begin to look for outside food until four weeks after it is hatched... Meanwhile, a lot of less sentimental fish are willing to swallow it and its problems.

That someone wrote me this cryptic thought: "Inflation means everything is valuable except money."

That one language reference book lists 52 synonyms for "love," but only 22 for "hate."

That some physicians believe a middle-aged person (if he has no acute heart condition to bar this performance) can add to his years by daily turning a somersault when there is no one by to remark it becomes his years.

That it was Abraham Lincoln who observed, "There is no grievance that is a fit object of redress by mob law."

The beef animal is not all meat — from 1,000 pounds comes 380 pounds of lean meat, 150 pounds fat, 85 pounds of bone and a few pounds are lost to shrinkage and cutting.

Veterans Guide

Q — I have a World War II GI endowment insurance policy which has matured, and which is paying me a monthly income. Must I pay taxes on these insurance proceeds?

A — No. Proceeds of GI insurance policies are not subject to taxes.

Q — I am eligible for a GI loan under the Korean GI Bill. I understand my deadline is January 31, 1956. Is that a deadline for applying? Or must the entire deal be completed by that time.

A — You must do more than apply for your GI loan by the January 31, 1956, deadline. Under present law, the loan actually must have been made before that date, with only the VA guaranty to be accomplished.

Q — Under the War Orphans Education program, who makes the decision whether a son or daughter of deceased war veteran needs special restorative training to overcome a handicap?

A — VA makes the determination. Where the need for special restorative training exists, VA will prescribe a suitable course, tailored to the individual.

Q — Is it possible to take Korean GI training while on active duty with the armed forces? I meet all the eligibility requirements.

A — You may not take training under the Korean GI Bill while on active duty, even though you do meet eligibility requirements. The law prohibits it.

400 Prison, Parole Officials Meet

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — More than 400 prison and parole officials from 12 states will hear talks by a number of crime authorities at the 23rd annual Central States Correctional Conference enters its second day here today.

Officials from Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, South Dakota and Wisconsin are attending the four day conference. Running concurrently with the 12-state conference is the annual meeting of the Ohio Probation and Parole Assn.

Scheduled to speak at this morning's session were Gov. C. William O'Neill, Chief Justice Carl V. NASSER OKS CANDIDATES

CAIRO (AP) — President Nasser today bumped more than half the candidates for Egypt's new National Assembly out of the race. He and a committee of three of his closest lieutenants put the stamp of approval on 1,142 candidates of 2,508 originally entered for the July 3 election. Nasser took the action by decree. The committee gave no reasons for its decision, which are final.

PENNY WISE—Mr. and Mrs. John C. Haugh could buy a lot of thoughts—if one still goes for a penny these days. The Miami, Fla., couple saved 100,000 cents, then banked the $1,000 with Joseph M. Lipton, left, president of the Dade Federal Savings and Loan Assn. The Haughs started saving pennies when they owned a restaurant. Rather than count and wrap them up each night, they threw them into gallon jugs. It took 13 years to acquire the 100,000 coppers.

12 Killed In Lebanon Election Violence

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — More than 12 persons were reported killed and 30 wounded in a gun battle around a church in north Lebanon Sunday as voters awaited Premier Sami Solh's government majority backing in the new Parliament for its pro-Western foreign policy.

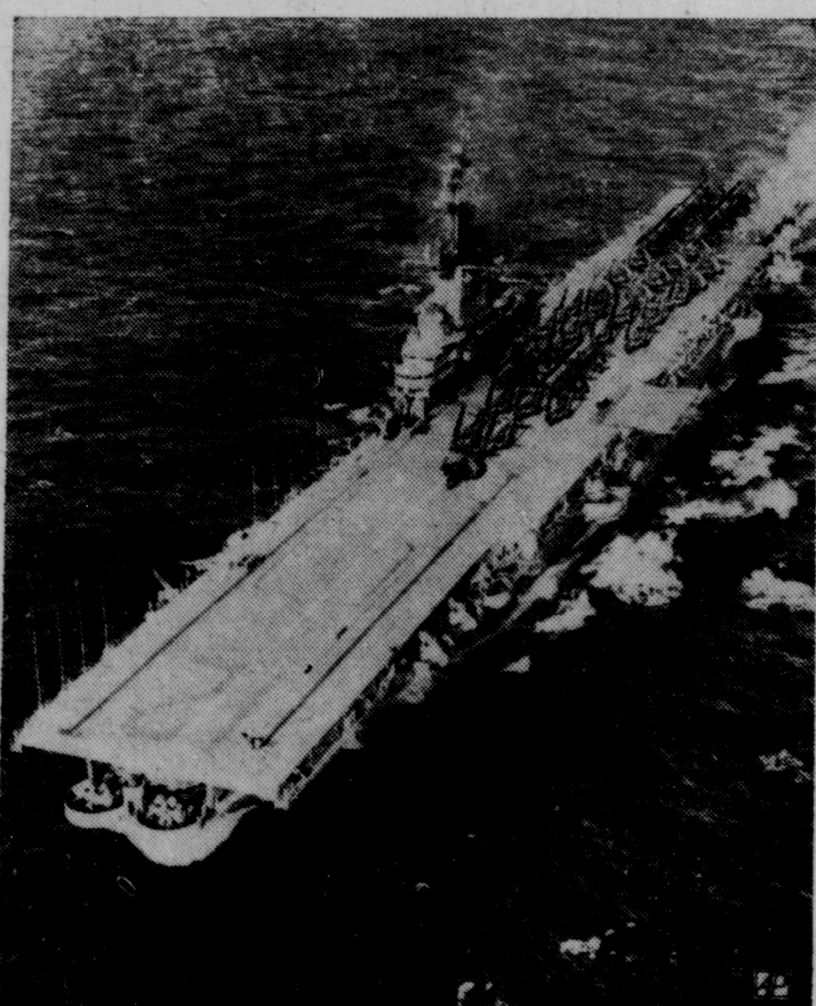

Lebanese army units had to be called into action to break up the battle at a Maronite Christian Church in Miziara. The fight between friends and relatives of rival candidates for Parliament was the outgrowth of an old feud between rival clans.

Voting in the second round of parliamentary elections, the conservative, predominantly Christian Mount Lebanon district elected 16 candidates either on the government list or expected to back Solh's foreign policy. Government candidates were leading in three of the other four contests.

This brought to 34, and possibly 37, the bloc in the 66-member parliament supporting the government's foreign policy, including endorsement of the Eisenhower Doctrine. Pro-Egyptian opposition candidates so far have won only three seats.

Other districts of Lebanon will fill the other 25 seats in voting next Sunday and June 30. Twenty-one seats were decided June 9.

LIGHTNING CAUSES FIRE
MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP) — A lightning-started fire caused damage estimated at $20,000 to $25,000 Sunday to the home of Jack Christy, city education board member. Two firefighters were injured fighting the blaze, but were released after treatment at Middletown hospital.

ALLEGED INVADER OF RED CHINA—U.S.S. Hornet, some of its complement of planes parked amidships and astern on flight deck, provoked complaint by Communist China Wednesday that American air and naval force had "invaded part of the South China Sea," sending flight after flight of U.S. planes pouring over Chinese mainland. U.S. Navy said one of its carrier-borne planes received minor damage when fired on by Chinese communist shore batteries about eight miles off the China coast.

Storms Menace Mid-West States

Heat Wave Scorches Section Of Nation

By The Associated Press
Freshstorm s threatened areas of Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska and Minnesota today.

The clash of cooler air with a humid blast tonguing its way from the torrid Southwest spawned torrential storms Sunday.

The Weather Bureau said new storms were brewing for northwest and extreme western Iowa, southeast and extreme eastern Nebraska, parts of southern Minnesota and parts of central Kansas.

By contrast, in a vast section of the nation there wasn't enough wind to blow out a match. From Texas to southern Maine the nation was in a stewpot. Temperatures were in the 90s in many places. Philadelphia got a record for a June 16 when the temperature soared to 100.

This swelter belt extended from Texas, north along a line to Missouri and across the southern Great Lakes area to Maine, and all through the South and Southwest.

High temperatures for the year were reported by many stations. New York and Chicago both had 93.

"This heat wave is due to continue to at least Tuesday night," the forecaster in Chicago said.

Residents in the flood-stricken St. Louis area were moving back into muddy homes after two days of torrential rains during which 19 persons died and property damage was estimated at several million dollars.

Floodwaters five feet deep swept through the central Kansas town of Ellis early today after a 4½-inch deluge hit the Big Creek watershed. City officials appealed for boats from surrounding towns to help evacuate residents. Drinking water and electricity were cut off.

The western Minnesota community of Marshall caught the first gust of a flood late Sunday night as the rain-swollen Redwood River burst a dike.

Some 75 families were evacuated at Yankton, S. D., on the Nebraska border, when the Marne Creek ran over its banks.

Small twisters touched ground and caused minor damage at Dunning, Minn., Yankton, S.D., and Downs, Kan.

Continuing rain threatened new areas of Nebraska as floodwaters receded at Superior, Red Cloud and Platt Center. The Big Blue River, surging over banks from Lincoln to west and north of Seward, was expected to crest today at two feet above the flood stage of 17½ feet.

Philanthropist And Former Swindler Dies

NEW YORK (AP) — The changed life of a swindler-turned-philanthropist has ended.

Moses Turman, 60, died Sunday in Mount Sinai Hospital after a month's illness.

Turman was sent to Sing Sing Prison in 1925 for forgery. He was accused of pyramiding a $100 loan into a debt of almost two million dollars. His manipulations earned him the titles of "inverse financial wizard," and "would-be Napoleon of finance."

Pardoned in 1933, Turman left prison determined to start a second life and repay the debt against him.

He became a partner in an office equipment firm. As the company prospered, he rose to vice president. Turman prospered too and began repaying his debts.

Turman was later credited with repaying virtually all the money lost as a result of his manipulations. And he poured out more money in philanthropic projects.

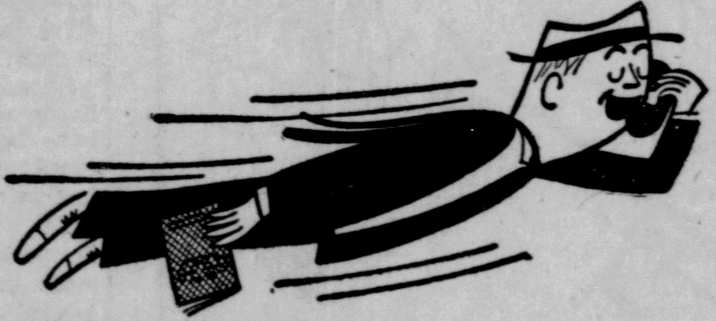

Henry Ford's first automobile still is in existence at Dearborn, Mich.

Something To Stand On

There used to be a saying about the platforms of political parties, that they were built only to run on and therefore no one should be expected to stand on them after the campaign was over.

That was true more often than not. But the Republican platform of 1956 now is being used as something to stand on in the discussion about whether or not President Eisenhower is off base with a 72-billion-dollar budget.

U.S. Rep. William Ayres of Akron has mailed out 1,600 copies of the Republican platform in reply to constituents criticizing the head of the party. "Is it fair," Rep. Ayres asks, "to criticize the President for dedicating himself to the cause of the Republican party as outlined in its most recent declaration, the 1956 platform?"

Well, it was a pretty big platform, with lots of planks in it, which may account for the fact Rep. Ayres seems to have overlooked some of them. The Republican platform pledged "further reduction in government spending as recommended by the Hoover Commission." Many Republicans loved that plank. It looked good enough to eat.

They liked the plank that pledged the party "to maintain the purchasing power of a sound dollar." They liked the promise of "further reductions in taxes with particular consideration for low and middle income families."

In a big platform, there is something for everybody; that is why platforms are constructed. The Republican platform of 1956 promised "vigorous enforcement of antitrust laws . . . and clear federal scrutiny of mergers." It promised to revise and improve the Taft-Hartley Act, "so as to protect more effectively the rights of labor unions, management, the individual worker and the public."

It was in favor of a public-health policy for distributing anti-polio vaccine, and it urged rehabilitation of blighted areas in cities. It recommended higher postal rates, equal constitutional rights for men and women and further reduction of trade barriers. It was opposed to any trade with the Communist world that "would threaten the security of the United States and our allies."

In fact, there are so many things in the Republican platform of 1956 that it might be helpful for everybody concerned to get a copy as a reminder of what it is in its entirety the party was running on when it elected a president, vice president, 200 U.S. representatives and 17 U.S. senators just 8 months ago.

The Money Moral

The same rule that applies to safety hazards which are not removed in time applies to money hazards.

Sooner or later, a great many people get hurt, and there is a strident demand to remove the hazard before more damage is done.

It took many accidents to show why discarded refrigerators were death traps for children. It has taken many incidents to show why union funds cannot safely be left unguarded.

AFL-CIO President George Meany warns, moreover, that the same trap exists for management responsible for welfare-pension plans as exists for unions.

The moral is that any sum of money, large or small, invites wrongdoing unless it is surrounded by enough safeguards to keep temptation at arm's length.

This is particularly true of sums of money belonging to people in general, as opposed to people in particular. Public funds are especially vulnerable. The scandal in Illinois exposed when a diligent newspaperman tried to track down hocus-pocus in the state treasurer's office demonstrated that everybody's business has a tendency to become nobody's business. Had it not been for the curiosity of one reporter, Orville Hodge would still be draining off hundreds of thousands of Illinois dollars for his own use.

In fact, had it not been for the diligence of several reports on the Pacific Coast, Dave Beck would still be buying $30 shirts with other people's money.

The price of honesty is eternal vigilance, the same as the price of liberty.

Farewell, Uncle Louis

Whatever is to be learned from Canadian politics is being studied closely by eager scholars in Washington, following the upset of Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent and the Liberal party in the election last Monday.

"Uncle Louis" was believed to be unbeatable. So was the Liberal party. The leader of the Conservatives, John Diefenbaker, offered nothing but a change. He had no earth-shaking reforms, no panaceas, nothing but the idea that Liberals had been in so long it would be a good idea to smash them up and start fresh. No politician can bring about a change merely by talking about it unless he talks about it in the psychologically correct manner.

Canadians were tired of "Uncle Louis." They were ready for "Uncle John."

Stassen's Blunder

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Clumsiness Almost Upset Disarmament Talks

David Lawrence

The most sensational story behind the scenes in Washington today has an element of mystery — why did Harold Stassen pull a

"boner" in London by showing to the Russians an American proposal on disarmament before it had with Britain, France and West Germany?

What Stassen did was in disregard of orders. He had been instructed orally before he left Washington that when he put on paper the substance of the discussions held here in the National Security Council — representing a kind of compromise of differing views on disarmament — he was to talk things over with the British and French and the Representative of Adenauer in London and explore their viewpoints before transmitting any proposals to the Soviets.

To make assurance doubly sure, Undersecretary of State Christian Herter sent a message to Stassen in London repeating in writing the instructions which had been given orally before the disarmament specialists left Washington.

NOTWITHSTANDING all these precautions, Stassen wrote out a memorandum which he gave to the Russian ambassador in London, presumably because he wanted the Russian reaction.

When the heads of the governments of the Western allies heard of Stassen's procedure they were shocked. Telephone conversations ensued back and forth across the Atlantic between high officials of the Western governments and the United States government.

The White House and State Department were busy for two days trying to straighten out the tangle and it was decided to sum up on Stassen for personal conference last week in Washington.

The question of relieving Stassen of his post was naturally discussed but it was decided that to do so might break up the whole disarmament negotiation and give the Russian propagandists a chance to argue that the United States was backing out of the discussions.

So an alternative plan was developed to guard against a recurrence of this kind of mistake. Julius Holmes, a diplomat of experience in delicate negotiations, was selected from the career service in the State Department to be associated with Stassen in London so as to make sure that what Secretary Dulles referred to in his press conference on Tuesday as "procedural complications" in the disarmament negotiations would not happen again.

ALSO TWO SENATORS will shortly join Stassen in London to represent the congressional point of view.

It is reported that Sen. Mansfield of Montana, Democrat, and Sen. Hickenlooper of Iowa, Republican, will be invited to go to London, or other senators if these two members of the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate find they cannot go.

What did Stassen have in mind when he sat down with the Russian ambassador and showed him a written document on the American point of view before he had talked things over with our allies? In these days of sensitiveness in London, especially about the need for allies to consult one another, this was a mistake in tactics that seems incredible.

Also with the delicate situation that Chancellor Adenauer faces in the coming elections in West Germany, it was particularly tactless to do anything which could give the impression that West Germany and the reunification issue were being ignored.

THE ONLY plausible explanation is that Stassen was overzealous or that he thought an informal sounding out of the Soviet point of view first would aid him later in getting agreement from the British and French and West Germans.

But a special ambassador should not take such chances without first consulting his superiors — in this case the secretary of state and the President. Maybe Stassen thought it wouldn't make any difference.

But the fact remains that Stassen's clumsiness in London stirred up considerable confusion as well as anxiety among the Western allies because it isn't easy to explain that a special emissary of long experience in these disarmament negotiations just pulled a "boner."

Stassen was later instructed to go back to the Russian envoy and tell him the memorandum was not in final form and that it had not yet been cleared with the allies.

Certainly President Eisenhower, whose military career has been based on the doctrine of obedience of specific orders given by a superior, will have a hard time forgetting what has happened though he may be forgiving.

Toll-Free Seaway Urged

By ALAN EMORY

The most powerful shipping group in Canada is fighting to make the St. Lawrence Seaway toll-free.

If this happens, the Canadians figure, the two United States Seaway locks will be relegated to the position of handling merely "excess" tonnage.

This line of thinking was revealed by John H. Mahoney, general manager of the Dominion Marine Association of Canada, which represents most Great Lakes - St. Lawrence shipping.

Mahoney says a nine-member committee of his association is preparing arguments against tolls as a matter of Canadian national policy.

"We don't feel there should be any tolls at all," he said.

He pointed out that, while United States seaway law prescribes tolls as a means of paying off the federal government's 143 million dollar investment, the charges are only permissive in the Canadian statute. U. S. railroads, Mahoney said, wanted high seaway tolls because they "would discourage water transportation."

HE EXPRESSED confidence that ultimately there would be an all-Canadian seaway. A 27-foot channel at Cornwall, Ont., opposite the U.S. locks, has been authorized, and though this will be used for "other purposes" at first, Mahoney thinks it will be part of an all-Canadian project.

"If the all-Canadian seaway were toll free," he commented, "it would mean the Eisenhower and Grasse River locks on the U. S. side would have to be toll-free, or be used solely for excess shipping the Canadian locks could not accommodate."

Elimination of tolls in the U. S. parts of the seaway would mean appropriation of large amounts of money, and Congress would be unlikely to support such a move after approving U. S. participation in an undertaking pictured as paying for itself through toll revenues.

MAHONEY SAID his association considered U. S. seaway tonnage estimates of between 50 and 56 million tons as "too high."

He pointed out that 24 million tons went through the Welland Canal last year, taxing facilities there to the limit and often "shipping was delayed." Maximum annual Welland capacity would be 26 million tons, he said.

If the U. S. set seaway tolls too high, Mahoney went on, Canada would have the right to "go on our way on charging tolls."

Historically Canada has backed toll-free government operations on the thesis that the boost in economy more than "paid" for the use of taxpayer funds.

Toll policy for the seaway is a touchy subject these days.

Rising construction costs have raised the estimates of charges to be levied on cargo transiting the waterway.

U. S. SHIPPERS have been plumping for low tolls, and now the Marine Association is expected to make an all-out assault toll charge.

Should the matter bog down in a stalemate, Canada could conceivably spend an additional 50 million dollars, build a new seaway lock at Cornwall and take command of the full length of the seaway.

To do this, however, Canada would have to receive U.S. agreement not to interpose a diplomatic objection, since "consultation" on any such move was made a requirement in an August, 1954, exchange of notes.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

The hell with asking Comrade Khrushchev for equal time to reach Russia's 50 television set owners. If Tovarich No. 1 really wants to even the score, he'd let us take a look at his secret MVD files. After all, there are so many Soviet agents asking now for a look at the FBI's sensitive dossiers in which rests the security of this land of ours.

There is enough in the new Communist drive for unlimited inspection of the FBI files to alienate my affections for a moment from the Senate racket - busting hearings to another Senate committee.

This second group has just come up with the fascinating story of a pro-Communist labor leader who became a ranking U. S. Intelligence officer.

I'd sure like to see what the secret files of Mr. Khrushchev's American section say about this one. Since the odds on winning this peep are about the same as those you'd get on taking home a bundle from one of Frankie Costello's casinos, we'll stick to what we have.

And this, grimly enough, is what we have:

A FORMER OFFICIAL of the notorious pro - Soviet United Electrical Workers Union, named Mike Jimenez, signed a Communist party political nominating petition in 1941, joined the U. S. Army two years later and quickly became a captain.

He has, under oath before the Senate Internal Security subcommittee, refused to deny that for almost 12 years after what we tell school children was the coming of peace, he was in the Communist party and attended one of its leadership schools.

Yet he retained his Army captaincy until mid-1953. During the war Jimenez was sent by his superior officers on intelligence missions behind enemy lines — and did a little work within our own lines. This, mind you, he did while assigned to the cloak - and - dagger thing known as the OSS — the Office of Strategic Services.

You can have it from his own moist lips, however. So here is part of the record of what happened when Jimenez was put on the stand on June 6, less than a fortnight ago.

HIS INTERROGATOR is that dedicated fellow, Judge Robert Morris:

Question: "You were with the OSS during the war?"

Answer: "I was, sir."

Question: "Will you tell us generally what your assignment was with the OSS?"

Answer: "Sir, I'm going to have to assert the privilege of The Fifth Amendment on the question."

"Because it might not only incriminate me but incriminate others and be prejudicial to the best interests of the U.S."

"I am under oath from the OSS, under which I served, not to reveal particulars with respect to duties."

Question: "I do not ask you to reveal particulars. I just want to know generally what you did."

Answer: "Well, sir, I did, generally, intelligence and special operations work behind the enemy lines and also within our lines, during World War II."

Question: "During that period were you a Communist?"

Answer: "I am going to assert the privilege, sir, of The Fifth Amendment, not to answer that question."

THEN ROBERT MORRIS, chief committee counsel, asked Jimenez, "Were you a Communist yesterday?" Jimenez took the Fifth.

When Morris asked him if he "were a Communist now," Jimenez retorted, "Most emphatically not."

Morris came back with "Have you attended Communist party meetings . . . Communist factions at New Haven? . . . Did you ever attend a Communist leadership school in Philadelphia? . . . In February 1946, did you attend a closed meeting of the Communist party of the upstate district of New York State, at Buffalo?"

On all these Jimenez took the Fifth like the WCTU to water. Jimenez did admit that in recent months he had been an official of the International Assn. of Machinists and was now a labor relations man, mostly in Jamestown, N.Y.

THIS HEARING went virtually unnoticed despite its implications. How would Jimenez incriminate himself if he told the committee what he did in the OSS?

What others in our intelligence services would he incriminate? How did he infiltrate a major union in the guided missile and pilotless aircraft field?

As I recall, there was some agitation over who promoted Maj. Peress? Who promoted Capt. Jimenez?

Glory And Gravy

By TRUMAN TWILL

An invitation in the morning mail to get rich quick, with statistics to show how it can be done — and honestly — started an introspection.

I do not know what accounts for the difference, but there are human beings who would not know what to do about it if they struck oil in the back yard.

They would squawk because of the mess and move away to a dry, clean place. They would not know enough about the profit system to sell drinking water to a desert derelict with a bagful of gold dust.

Every sharpie with the dynamic urge to make a buck can talk them out of their dental plates and underwear, especially with a plea to their better nature. They are always worrying about their better nature.

But they cannot bring their minds to a focus on widget-making and profit-turning. They could not run a widget factory if they inherited it from a rich uncle. They would not have made out if John Jacob Astor had been their great-grandfather.

They do not know how to line a chest with nuts and then risk the nuts on a bigger nest and so on until they have cornered the nut market.

They have no more aptitude for grasping the difference between profit and loss than they have for balancing check books. They drive bankers and accountants to despair.

Instead of having hard business heads on their shoulders, they have heads full of theories, nonsense and half-baked plans for improving the world.

Yet, some of these scatterbrains invariably end up by being more important than their hard-headed superiors.

There is a scandal now going around in our family about one of these cloud dwellers — a cousin once removed who kited off to the hills of South Carolina to make pottery of his own design, instead of settling down to a life of solid security in his old home town.

I saw some of this visionary's stuff recently. It is my hunch, though I know nothing about design and technique in pottery, that it has a better chance of being remembered and valued than all of Elvis Presley's successful records or the entire output of the home appliance industry during his entire lifetime; that more people may be interested in what made him tick when they look back on our times than will be interested in the managers of the nation's 10 largest corporations.

Historians never tell who made the money. They tell who made the vases, the sculptures and the music, who painted the pictures, told the stories and dreamed the great dreams.

Not uncommonly the people who did these things were unknown and unhonored while they lived. They may have lived on crumbs from the tables of the well-to-do, who pitied and patronized them. Yet when it is all said and done, they get all the glory while their well-heeled contemporaries settle for the gravy.

What makes this odd is that neither group is satisfied with the outcome. People who know how to store nuts wish they could preserve a few dreams, while people who are long on dreams are frequently hard up for nutmeats.

It takes both kinds to make a world — also many other kinds, which includes the rest of us. We have neither glory nor gravy.

Detroit Makes A Pledge

The auto industry has announced it will no longer emphasize speed in its sales approach. Ever since the early days of motoring the speed motif and the drive-with-care motif have been trying to snuggle in the same bed.

The Detroit announcement is getting cheers everywhere.

Up to now a man on a sidewalk reading a Safety First Proclamation has been in danger of being run over by a screwball in an auto sold him as having all the qualities of a flying saucer.

THE AMBULANCE that picked him up was bought through an advertisement emphasizing acceleration.

The investigation was conducted in cars advertised as capable of finishing first in a half-dozen speed contests.

The hospital radio made pitches for a model which had made Mt. McKinley in high.

When he got home and tuned in to TV he saw a glorification of a car that could be used as a guided missile.

COMFORTED by the Detroit announcement, the public wishes the auto industry would frame an advertisement along this line:

1. The American motor industry produces the most beautiful, comfortable and reliable cars in the world. Its aim is to make you a happy motorist, not a dangerous character.

2. We build cars, not stunt machinery and we need no sales appeal to daredevils whose specialty is "working without a net."

3. The American auto industry has brought great blessings to mankind, opening new vistas, shortening vast distances and making possible undreamt of enjoyment. It is determined to present the automobile as the last word in comfort, not the first word in an accident report.

4. Its aim is to make it easier for you to get to work, visit your friends, and enjoy your free hours, not to develop your capacities as a stunt driver.

5. The purpose of an auto is to get you between given points without mishap, not to help you break a sound barrier.

6. "The life you save may be your own" is a good slogan at all times, but nobody should say this out of one side of the mouth and declare "The car you buy may win the Daytona Beach races," out of the other.

7. The American auto industry gives you luxury, relaxation, wonderful transportation and a brighter existence. To make you a bad insurance risk has no part in its program.

8. Its engineers are responsible, intelligent experts dedicated to turning out a better auto, not a better moon-rocket.

9. Its cars are the wonder of the world and can be sold without glorification of high speed. In its pledge to the public the industry puts the same honesty and sturdiness it puts into its automobiles.

Asbestos-Cement Shingles Introduced 25 Years Ago

June marks the 25th anniversary of the introduction of one of this country's most popular building materials — asbestos-cement siding shingles. Introduced in 1932, enough asbestos-cement shingles have been made to side approximately seven million homes.

Asbestos-cement siding is made of asbestos fibers and portland cement. It is rigid and strong, cannot burn, rot or be eaten by termites or other insects. It is weather resistant and, while it can be painted if desired, it does not require painting for preservation.

THE VARIOUS ASBESTOS-cement sidings being made today represent the results of years of laboratory and field research. The big news for home builders are the recent developments in the quality, style and methods of applying the siding. In the past 18 months, manufacturers have introduced a wide variety of new colors, textures and sizes.

One of the most popular trends is an improved application method, emphasizing the horizontal shadow lines between siding courses. This deep shadow-line effect is achieved through the use of a fiberboard shingle backer, or nailing strip, under the siding. Because shadow lines change with the position of the sun, adding interest and character to house exteriors, this new application method has caught on with home builders throughout the country. In addition, the fiber-board backer provides insulation and makes exterior walls more weather-resistant. The new method meets the standards and requirements for use on homes financed by the Federal Housing Administration.

ASBESTOS SIDING shingles now come in a wide range of sizes. The standard 12 by 24 inch shingles are still the most popular. However, there now are long, narrow shingles — twice the length of the customary shingle — which can be applied clapboard fashion. This style is especially adapted to the long, rangy type of house and is filling a long-felt need. There also are oversize units to meet other architectural requirements. The larger shingles reduce the number needed and simplify the application procedure.

Color stylists have worked with product engineers to develop new surface textures and colors. The sidings are available in many colors, ranging from pastels to deeper tones and shades. Surface textures have been developed which emphasize both vertical and horizontal striations, with some having a glazed surface smooth to the touch.

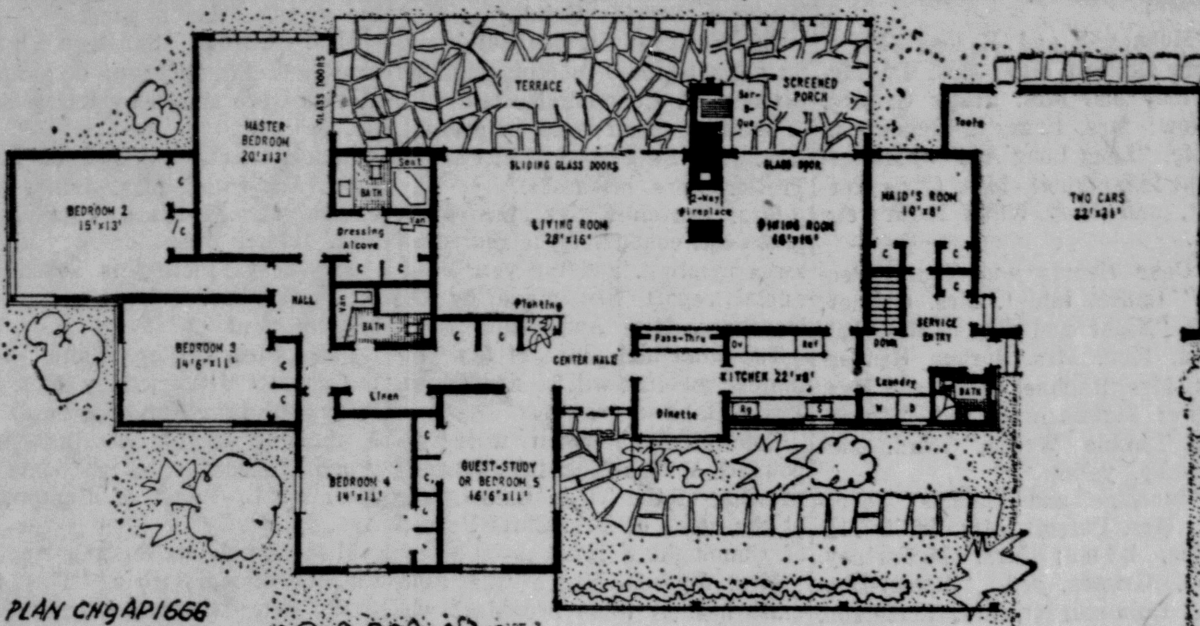

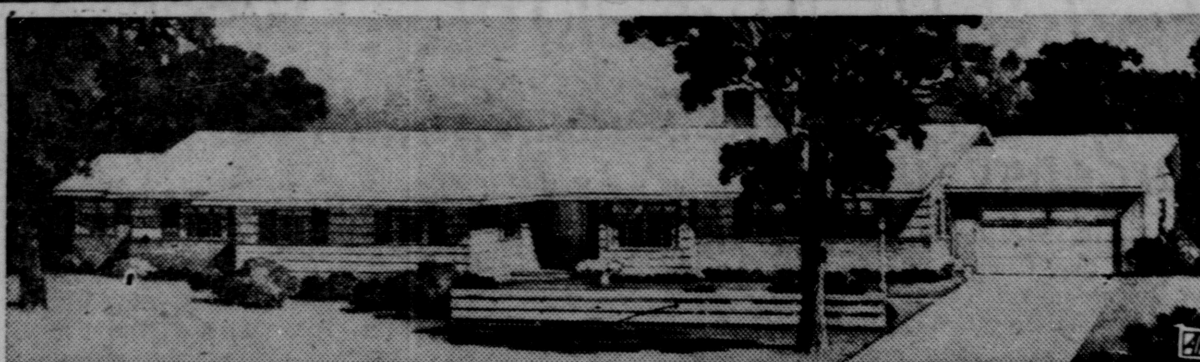

THESE MULTI-COLORED, many-sized shingles are vastly different from the crude, gray units put on the market in 1932. But those first asbestos-cement shingles nevertheless were well received, being used chiefly in the rejuvenation of old homes. In that year, you will remember, the building of new homes — and almost everything else — was at an all-time low.

Oddly enough, it was as a result of a military need for camouflaged buildings, during World War II, that the first colored shingles were developed. Today, they are among the most widely-used materials for residences.

Laminated Oak Blocks Are Becoming Popular

Laminated oak blocks are becoming popular as a flooring material for home modernizing projects. The blocks are especially suitable for below-ground recreation rooms and for home additions built on concrete slabs, according to the National Lumber Manufacturers Association. The ease with which the blocks may be installed makes them ideal for the do-it-yourselfers, the lumbermen explain.

Before the blocks are applied, concrete slabs should be moisture-proofed. Then, a mastic is spread over the slab with a tooth-edged trowel. The blocks, nine inches square and prefinished, have a tongue-and-groove arrangement so the groove of each succeeding block can be "hinged" over the tongue of the adjoining one. This prevents the mastic from bunching up, while insuring a tight fit.

QUALITY AND COMFORT: This luxurious ranch is equipped with four bedrooms and inviting hospitality areas. Living and dining terraces are separated from their counterparts indoors by a huge glass wall and sliding glass doors. The four main sleeping rooms are arranged in their own wing so that each has cross ventilation. This is Plan CN9AP1666 and boasts 2,695 square feet. It's by Architect Lester Cohen, 117 West 48th St., New York 30, N. Y.

Since the blocks are laminated, expansion is a negligible factor and the contractor or home craftsman need not worry about allowing expansion room at the borders.

Home Owners' Question Box

Q — My husband left a cigarette burning in an ash tray and it caused a blister on one of my veneered tables. Is there any way I can repair this myself?

A — Try injecting some glue into the blister with an eye dropper or a syringe. If you use the eye dropper, first slit the blister lengthwise with a razor. After you have spread the glue, weight the surface heavily until the glue dries.

Q — We're planning to build on a heavily wooded acre overlooking the sea near San Francisco. Can we use light pastel colors on the outside of the house, or shall we stick to a rustic decor?

A — A house in a wooded setting needs color to keep it from being "lost," says Ned Abrams, prominent San Francisco architect. "A light pastel roof of asphalt shingles, for example, keeps a house from looking like it's covering under the trees," Abrams says. Stone planting boxes, split-rail fences and redwood stains on siding, windows and doors will contribute the "rustic" theme and harmonize with most pastel roofing shades.

Q — Most of the rich topsoil around my new house was buried by the building contractor when he backfilled the foundations. What can I do to the areas to help a nice lawn to grow? The subsoil is sandy.

A — Add a one-inch layer of organic matter, such as peat or commercial humus, and mix it in with the sandy subsoil to a depth of six inches. This should make the subsoil capable of supporting a respectable lawn.

Q — What could I plant in a bare, shady, one-foot-wide strip between my driveway and the foundation of my house?

A — Lilies-of-the-valley, plantain lilies or pachysandra each will provide greenery and some flowers. You also might use a hard, native fern such as the Christmas fern.

LEAD IN FURNITURE DESIGN

Finishes which accent the natural beauty of wood grain continue as a leader in furniture design. This was evident in the new furniture lines exhibited at the National Furniture Design Show in Chicago recently.

Make Cellars Easy To Reach For Safety

A direct outside entrance to your basement is not only a desirable convenience but, says Frank Rohde, safety expert of the Liberty Mutual Insurance Company, it may also save your life in an emergency.

"You may never be trapped in the basement of a blazing home, but it is a grim possibility which must be faced," says Mrs. Rohde. "Many homes have but a single means of access to the basement and that is through a section of the structure which could very well be the site of fire. The average basement window is so small as not to afford a means of escape. Thus a basement door leading to the outside through a metal hatchway cover becomes an important safety factor in every home."

Mr. Rohde says an intelligently planned and used basement not only increases the comfort and efficiency of the home but adds to its value.

"The basement is the least costly and most versatile room in the house," he adds. "It is poor economics to permit it to remain a dark, dusty catch-all when with a little planning it can be made as cheery and accessible as any room in the house."

Home Repairs Dos And Don'ts

Home and Workshop Motors

DO . . . remember that motors with sealed bearings do not need lubricating, but others do.

DO . . . if you are unaware of what kind of motor it is, look for small oil holes with hinged caps at two or three places on the housing . . . oil holes which are missing on motors with sealed bearings.

DO . . . use a vacuum cleaner attachment for getting dust and dirt out of the ventilating ducts and other parts of the motor, never using water or any liquid except carbon tetrachloride for cleaning.

DO . . . be sure that the motor pulley is aligned properly and has the right tension, since one that is too tight will produce an overload and one that is too loose will cause a loss of power.

DON'T . . . forget that, while oiling motors without sealed bearings is absolutely essential, it must be done only once every few months for the average household motor and then only a little oil at a time.

DON'T . . . box in a motor to keep out dust and dirt unless you make provision for an adequate circulation of air inside the box.

DON'T . . . use a larger-size fuse if the motor blows out a fuse during the starting load; a time-delay fuse of the same amperage usually will prevent future blow-outs.

DON'T . . . use an extension cord lighter than the electrical cord attached to the motor.

Guarding Your Health

By DR. EDWIN P. JORDAN

Questions and Answers

I do not recall ever having been asked before to discuss the first question.

Q — Please discuss writer's cramp.

A — This interesting disorder belongs in what has been termed the class of "professional cramps." It is applied to disorders involving those muscles which are used in finely coordinated and often repeated movements necessary for the performance of some particular task. Besides writer's cramp, there are telegrapher's cramp, musician's cramp and the like.

At the beginning the symptoms are likely to be mild and characterized by rapid fatigue, tension of the muscles and aching pain whenever the particular act is executed. As time goes on, the involved muscles often go into spasms and the necessary motions cannot be coordinated so that the task (such as writing) becomes impossible.

These muscular difficulties are usually associated with anxiety, feelings of resentment and frustration and difficulties in social adjustment. Treatment is often quite complicated because it involves recognition and adjustment to social and personal problems in addition to those of the occupation itself. Physiotherapy and some drugs are or may be helpful, but these alone are often not enough to solve the problem.

Q — I am in excellent health for my age, 72, but for the past six months have had a great deal of trouble with excessive salivation. What can be done about this?

A — Excessive production of saliva can result from any one of a large number of disorders, such as Parkinson's disease, or from local inflammatory conditions of the mouth or surrounding areas. It is also quite common in certain nervous conditions, particularly that which is known as "neuro-rosis." The treatment consists in identifying and removing the cause, if possible. Sometimes certain drugs are useful, temporarily. In excessive salivation resulting from neurosis, however, treatment is often exceedingly difficult.

Q — Does coffee have any bad effects on high blood pressure?

A — The caffeine in coffee is a potent drug and is known to have certain actions on several functions of the body. Among others, it does stimulate the heart, principally by increasing the rate of the beat. In moderate quantities, and in mild hypertension, its effects are probably slight. However, excessive coffee drinking in the face of a considerably raised blood pressure would not be generally advised.

Q — My son always has been in his home. When he drinks a little too much he breaks out in red blotches. What causes this?

A — It sounds as though your son develops hives or urticaria following beer drinking. This is most likely the result of hypersensitivity or allergy to some substance present in the beer. The obvious solution to his problem is not to "drink a little too much."

Q — Would arthritis in the back be caused by moving about 200 yards from a large lake? I never had symptoms of arthritis before.

A — It seems most unlikely that this change of location could have caused arthritis, though dampness does make some people with various forms of arthritis and rheumatism feel worse.

Indians Sweep Doubleheader From Orioles 4-3, 5-1

Williams Gets Second Homer

Tribe Will Begin Road Trip Tuesday

CLEVELAND (AP) — The trade that brought Dick Williams to the Cleveland Indians and sent Jim Busby to the Baltimore Orioles has worked to the Tribe's advantage so far.

Since donning a Cleveland uniform Friday, Williams has hit two home runs, one in each of the two games in which he has played. In his first appearance against his former Baltimore teammates Friday night, the 28-year-old outfielder had three hits in four times at bat. Busby has two hits in 16 at bats for the Orioles.

Williams connected for his second homer in Sunday's doubleheader, which the Indians swept from the Orioles by scores of 4-3 and 5-1. He was in center field in the second game and homered in to the left field stands, singled, walked and struck out in four trips to the plate.

Al Smith also hit a homer in the nightcap as the Indians coasted to a 5-1 victory behind the six-hit pitching of Early Wynn.

It was the eighth triumph of the season for the 37-year-old right-hander. He shut out the Orioles until the eighth when a double by Billy Gardner and Billy Goodman's single scored the lone Baltimore tally.

The Indians collected 10 hits off Orioles' hurlers Billy O'Dell and Ken Lehman. O'Dell, who won his first start in the majors by shutting out the league-leading Chicago White Sox Sunday, 5-0, was handed his first defeat.

Smith, the first batter to face the young southpaw, hit a home run into the left field stands in the first inning. An error by Billy Goodman opened the way for two more Indian runs as Chico Carrasquel and Jim Hegan singled and George Strickland was hit by a pitched ball.

The Indians added another tally in the second on singles by Smith and Larry Raines and a sacrifice fly by Vic Wertz.

Williams' fifth-inning homer ended the Tribe scoring.

Ray Narleski was credited with his fifth win of the season, coming on to pitch in the eighth inning of the first game. Cal McLish, who replaced starter Don Mossi in the eighth, filled the bases by yielding a single and two walks. Narleski got Connie Johnson, the losing pitcher, to pop out, retiring the side.

Roger Maris' bases-loaded single scored the winning runs in the eighth of Johnson, who held the Tribe to six hits.

A single by Gardner, a walk and Gus Triandos' single in the first rightfielder Rocky Colavito fired Goodman dropped Hal Naragon's pop fly allowing Gene Woodling to score in the second.

Singles by Smith and Bobby Avila and Woodling's grounder scored another run for the Indians in the third.

An error at third allowed two runs to score in the fourth, putting Baltimore ahead 3-2. Jim Pyburn was trapped after rounding third base on Goodman's double to right. Pyburn was caught off base when rightfielder Rocky Colavito fired the ball to Smith.

Smith dropped Hal Naragon's throw in the rundown and Pyburn got safely back to third. Willy Miranda singled, scoring Goodman and Pyburn.

Maris then hit his game-winning single.

The double victory gave the Indians their first sweep of a doubleheader this year. The fourth-place Indians start a 14-game tour Tuesday with a night game at Boston. Bob Lemon, out of action since May 24 with a pulled thigh muscle, will pitch for the Tribe.

Fan Runs Bases At Cleveland Game

CLEVELAND (AP) — The 19,500 baseball fans at Municipal Stadium were treated to a bit of unscheduled comedy during the Cleveland-Baltimore doubleheader Sunday when a fan suddenly appeared on the field and started running the bases with police in pursuit.

They cheered as the base runner, identified by police as Roger Fitt, 20, of Mogadore, Ohio, eluded his pursuers.

Fitt, a night watchman for an Akron excavating firm, explained later that "all of a sudden I felt like running around the bases in front of all those people."

Athletics-Yankee Player Swap Brings Old Accusations

NEW YORK (AP) — Accusations that the Kansas City Athletics were acting as a "farm club" for the New York Yankees were echoing anew around the American League today. Against the Yanks Sunday, the A's started a line-up that included seven ex-New Yorkers, including Billy Martin, who figured in the latest deal between the two clubs.

These accusations started almost immediately after the Athletics' franchise was switched from Philadelphia to Kansas City in October, 1954. Even before the next season began, the Yankees sold Ewell Blackwell, Tom Gorman and Dick Kryhoski to the Athletics and followed soon after by selling them Enos Slaughter, Johnny Sain and Lou Sleater.

The numerous transactions between the New York and Kansas City organizations since then have done nothing to dispel the charge although it is a moot question which team has been helped the most by the trades.

The latest trade between the two clubs, Saturday night's eight-player swap, with Martin and Harry Simpson as the key men, was the 11th engineered in less than three years, involving 34 players.

The current Kansas City roster includes 15 ex-Yankees, six of them pitchers. The Yankees, on the other hand, have only four ex-Athletics although their minor league farm clubs have been swelled by nine former Kansas City players.

Along with Martin, the Yankees sent Ralph Terry, Windy Held and Bob Martyn to Kansas City for Simpson, infielder Milt Graff, pitcher Ryne Duren and outfielder Jim Pisoni. The last three were immediately shipped to Yankee farm clubs.

Cards Take 2 From Dodgers

Chisox Win Pair; Pad League Lead

By The Associated Press
Frank Lane's collection of the bought and bartered—plus Stan Musial—have proved themselves on the road. Now if these St. Louis Cardinals can adjust their appetites to home cooking, this might be a National League battle that's literally going to the Birds.

Cardinal teams have threatened before without winning since the league pennant last flew over the St. Louis ballyard in 1946, but this is a season with all the earmarks of a new order.

The Cards are even beating Brooklyn at Ebbets Field—a sure sign it's time for a closer look.

A 7-6, 8-4 doubleheader sweep of the nose-diving Dodgers at the Brooks' stronghold Sunday — first time that's happened in at least eight years — boosted St. Louis into second place behind Milwaukee in the five-club NL race.

The double victory ended one of the most successful Cardinal Eastern trips (11-2) since the early 40's and gave the club a road record of 24-10, a .706 pace. The only item that has stopped St. Louis short of the top is a 7-13 show before the home folks.

Milwaukee, 1½ games up on the flying Redbirds, split its doubleheader with Philadelphia, winning the first 3-2 but losing the second 1-0 to Curt Simmons despite a one-hitter from Lew Burdette. The New York Giants, with Don Mueller hitting a three-run pinch homer, dumped Cincinnati into third place, 4-3, and Chicago stopped Pittsburgh 4-1 in the first of two games at Forbes Field. The second fell victim to the Pennsylvania 7 p.m. curfew with the clubs tied 4-4 after 6 1-3 innings.

Chicago's White Sox added a half length to their American League lead over New York, defeating Washington 4-2 and 8-6 while the Yanks settled for an 8-6 victory over Kansas City in a 10-inning single game. Three and one-half games separates the teams. Improving Detroit, now 5½ games off the pace, edged Boston 2-1 on Harvey Kuenn's 10th-inning homer and Cleveland won twice from Baltimore, 4-3 and 5-1.

An 18-year-old bonus beauty only a week out of high school, Von McDaniel, represented the "bought," Hoyt Wilhelm the "bartered" and Musial was Musial in the Cardinals splurge against Brooklyn, dropping the defending champions to fifth place.

McDaniel, younger brother of the Cards' Lindy McDaniel, allowed only one hit in four scoreless innings of relief in the opener, which Musial tied at 6-6 with a three-run homer and Ken Boyer won with a solid drive into the stands. Wilhelm outdid that in the second game, taking over for winner Willard Schmidt in the sixth retiring all 12 Dodgers he faced.

Burdette allowed only a sixth-inning double to Joe Lonnett in the second game at Philadelphia but an infield out and Richie Ashburn's sacrifice fly enabled Lonnett to score with the run that beat the Braves. Milwaukee left-hander Juan Pizarro had the opener in hand with a five-hitter despite homers by Willie Jones and Granny Hamner.

Millard Howell, a 37-year-old relief pitcher, used his bat as well as his right arm to help the White Sox sweep Washington after homers by Minnie Minoso and Jim Rivera had clinched the opener for Jim Wilson. Howell hit two successive home runs, his first in the majors, as Chicago bounced back from a 6-0 deficit.

The Yanks, with ex-Kansas City outfielder Harry Simpson contributing a key single, made it three straight over the A's. Simpson's hit moved Mickey Mantle to third, from where he scored the run that broke a 5-5 tie in the tenth inning. Elston Howard's two-run single wrapped it up for Bob Grim over Tompkins, both in relief.

Lanky Jim Bunning of Detroit struck out six to take over the AL lead with 76 and fired a three-hitter before Kuenn's homer off Mike Fornieles topped the Red Sox. Bunning, now 7-1, has won six straight in the Tigers' surge into contention.

Gallant Man Wins Belmont Stakes

NEW YORK (AP) — Gallant Man, the tough little Irish-bred Belmont Stakes winner has a date with the veterinarian after which a decision will be made about his next race. Bold Ruler, who was the slight favorite in Saturday's $113,350 mile and one half classic, also will be laid up for a brief time in care of a "vet."

Neither of them was hurt in the Belmont. Gallant Man, who set an American record with his tremendous 8-length victory, will be treated for worms, while Bold Ruler must take two shots of vaccine for sleeping sickness.

Bold Ruler tired after setting a blistering early pace and the D. & M. Stable's Inside Tract came up to take second money.

Gallant Man's sensational Belmont time of 2:26¾ under 126 pounds clipped a full second off the track and American record set by Bolingbroke in 1940. It also mangled the Belmont Stakes mark of 2:28 1-5 set by the great Count Fleet in 1943, and equaled by another great colt, Citation, in 1948.

Charley Thurn, co-captain of Notre Dame's golf team, was South Bend city champion in 1955.

St. Petersburg, Fla., Golfer Wins National Open Tourney

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — America's new National Open golf king, 32-year-old Dick Mayer, was still in an "I can't believe it" dither today.

The St. Petersburg, Fla., pro has the features of a movie idol and the courteous manner of an old Southern gentleman. He learned the rudiments of golf as a kid by batting a ball around a baseball diamond with a six-iron from his dad's set. He left a Wall Street brokerage job in 1949 to turn professional.

Sunday he defeated two-time champion Cary Middlecoff by seven strokes—a record for such extra heats—in the playoff over Inverness Club's hot and humid acres.

Mayer termed it the "allergy playoff" because he and Cary have been taking shots all week for various ailments. Middlecoff, who had two double bogies and finished 9 over par, after shooting a pair of 68s for a record in the final rounds, said he was "mentally exhausted."

"I played like a 'chopper' all day," he said. "I guess I left all my golf right on the 18th green Saturday when I sank that birdie to tie."

The new king of the linksmen, hours after posting his 72 against Middlecoff's 79 over the par-70 course in 98-degree temperature, said, "I'm numb, and I'll be that way for days."

Until Sunday, Mayer hadn't won a tournament this year.

Reminded that he had just picked up a $7,200 check for his share of the $30,000 tournament gold, he remarked: "Hush, Uncle Sam will hear and be around to see me."

Richard Greene Gets Hole-In-One

Richard "Knobby" Greene made his first hole-in-one playing the Salem Golf Club course Sunday. His shot came on the 145-yard Number 6 hole. He used a seven iron.

Playing with Greene were Ed Pukalski, Rudy Schuster, Robert Schaeffer and Steve Grubish. In the tourney held over the weekend, Steve Grubish's and Sarge Ware's total of 130 took first place. Glenn Harding and Val Altomare were tied for second, with John Spear and Richard Greene with scores of 136.

Mast Wins Modified Feature At Canfield

Dean Mast of Sugar Creek, O., made his first appearance at the Canfield Speedway in three years and raced to victory in the modified feature Saturday night before 4,820 fans.

The first open competition raced attracted 24 modified cars for the feature, but Mast took the lead on the 12th lap and went on to a victory.

Roy Gemberling of Kent racked up No. 3 in the late model feature after early leader Jim Bickering staff of Mineral Ridge spun into the infield.

Mike Klapak of Warren made his first start here this season and set a new track record of 18.7 in his Thunderbird.

Another newcomer made quite a hit with fans. He is Johnny Roberts of Detroit. Roberts started last in the feature and with his Studebaker moving like a "bomb," powered his way to fifth spot. However, he never could catch Mast, who also had triumphs in a heat race and the Australian pursuit.

Following Mast in the feature were Tom Betts of Kinsman, Baldy Baker of Bolivar and Jim Seese of Akron.

Bob Brocius of Warren followed Gemberling across the finish line in the late model finale.

Pole Vaulter Makes World's Highest Leap

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — There's little reason to believe that Bob Gutoski, the vaulting genius from Occidental, won't have a world's record placed beside his name. He ought to — he has two pending and this week may get another ready when he appears in the National AAU at Dayton, Ohio.

His greatest leap of all came here Saturday night in the NCAA meet when the slim, 6-footer from the West Coast, soared 15 feet 9 1/4 inches. It bettered his own mark of 15 feet 8 1/4 inches set April 27, which is pending approval as a world's record.

It also was the highest vault in history, both indoors and out. Cornelius Warmerdam held the previous high — 15 feet 8 1/4 inches at Chicago in 1943. Warmerdam's best outdoor mark was 15 feet 7 3/4 in 1942.

There's some question about the prodigious leap here, whether it will be accepted as a world's record.

A retriever tried to catch Gutowski's pole at the top of his jump, fumbled on the first try and accidentally shoved the pole toward the pit but caught it before it hit the ground.

The pole, however, had gone between the standards and across the "plane of the bar," which is against the rules. A major question is: would the wind have blown it between the standards?

Bernie Moore referee of this meet and Wade Thompson vaulting judge, said they would submit the record for world approval and thought it would be accepted. But Gutowski merely commented: "Well, I do the jumping and the rest is up to them." A teammate chimed in with "he'll get it next time he jumps anyway."

Max McDaniel Sets Champions On Ears

BROOKLYN (AP) — Max ("Just call me Von") McDaniel shrugged today when he was asked how it feels for an 18-year-old pitcher to set the league champions on their ears.

"Confidence is all you need in the majors," answered Young McDaniel, "kid" brother of the St. Louis Cardinals' Lindy. "That's what you need, and I've got it." Von has been out of high school only one month. Several major league teams were waving large bundles of greenbacks under his nose in his home town, Hollis, Okla.

But Lindy, one of the Cards' established hurlers at 21, talked Von into signing for the $50,000 the Cards were offering. That's the same price Lindy got when he joined the Red Birds.

So now the Cards have what they hope will be another brother pitching combination like Dizzy and Paul Dean, who won a total of 97 games for the team back in 1934-35. They also form the first major league brother combination since Dizzy and Paul.

Carl Braun scored 1,001 points in 72 games for the New York Knickerbockers' basketball team last season.

Police Search For Medina Jail Escapee

MEDINA, Ohio — One of two men who escaped from the Medina County Jail was back in custody today, but a statewide search was being conducted for his companion.

The escapees were identified by authorities as Charles S. Godfrey, 28, of Columbus, and James Hill, 25, of Medina.

They saved their way out of the jail early Sunday, but the escape was not discovered until five hours later when Sheriff Steve Helli and a state highway patrolman arrested Hill for trying to break into a service station at Richfield, 11 miles west of here.

"Our jail is overcrowded and undermanned," the sheriff said. "We have a capacity for about 20 prisoners and always have at least 30."

Hill is being held for grand jury action on a breaking and entering charge. Godfrey, who was sentenced to one to three years in the Mansfield Reformatory last week after pleading guilty to passing bad checks, was awaiting transfer to the reformatory.

'Down On The Farm'

News of Meetings, Helpful Hints For Farmers

Wheat Quota Referendum — Mahoning County farmers will vote on marketing quotas Thursday. All eligible voters may cast their ballots at the ASC office, West Main St., Canfield, between 8 a.m. and 7 p.m., announces A. G. Cobourn, Mahoning County ASC office manager.

All growers in the commercial wheat area are eligible to vote in the wheat quota referendum on which the wheat acreage to be harvested in 1958 plus any wheat acreage to be put in wheat acreage Reserve will be more than 15 acres.

Two thirds or more of the eligible voters must approve quotas in order to put them into effect on the 1958 Wheat Crop.

Farms Bigger Today

AMERICAN FARMS are about 87½ acres larger today than they were 20 years ago, reports the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee.

"Back in 1935, farms averaged 154.8 acres in size," says the committee. "Today they average 242.2 acres."

"This increase in size shows the trend to greater efficiency in farming."

"Larger farms often use labor and equipment more fully than can smaller ones, according to Ohio agricultural economists. Operators of larger farms can cut costs of production and increase their net profits per acre on corn, small grains, meat and dairy products."

However, farmers with smaller farms can still compete successfully with larger operators, says the committee. By using fertilizer they can increase their returns for each acre, each hour and each dollar used in crop production.

"By farming each acre more efficiently," says the committee, farmers make each acre do a bigger crop producing job. This cuts the cost per bushel, per hour and per acre. This lower cost gives a greater margin of profits and more "take-home" pay for the farmer."

The committee quotes R. J. Tomkins, Ohio State University agricultural economist to the effect that "farmers can increase their net income by the proper use of fertilizer, improved and adapted varieties of seed, labor-saving practices, weed and insect control."

Searchers To Retrieve Navy Pilot's Body

DUNKIRK, N. Y. — Coast Guard and Air Force searchers today were trying to retrieve the body of a 36-year-old Navy research pilot whose single engine navy attack bomber crashed into Lake Erie three miles from here Sunday.

The pilot, Lt. Robert Kampmiller, of Uniontown, Pa., was spotted by skindivers in the wreckage of his plane 15 feet below surface. The divers, however, were unable to unlock the cockpit's canopy.

Kampmiller was piloting an AD Skyraider on a routine training flight from the Naval Air Base at Akron, Ohio. Lt. David Bertsch of Canton, Ohio, piloting another Skyraider, was making the flight with Kampmiller.

Bertsch said he and Kampmiller were flying at an altitude of about 500 feet when Kampmiller's plane suddenly flipped over on its back, crashed into the lake and sank. Bertsch said he flew over the area for about a half hour but he saw no sign of Kampmiller's plane.
